

HUMAN TRAFFICKING SYMPOSIUM

SAVE THE DATE JUNE 12 & 13, 2019

As a criminal and social problem, the impact of human trafficking hits close to home. "We used to think it didn't exist," says Dr. Bishop. "Now we're trying to assess what kind of resources we have in place for restoring victims' dignity and basic human rights, as well as developing their resiliency for the future. Awareness is a collaborative effort, and we can't do this without community involvement."

Spend two days with us as we learn to recognize the signs and how to respond to suspected cases of human trafficking. Sessions aimed at professionals in: education, mental health & counseling, medicine, law enforcement, parents, justice system, social work, human services, youth work, finance, transportation industry, business, and faith-based communities.

For Sponsorship
Information and Questions:
Dr. Johanna Bishop

Director of Behavioral Science Programs

Contact Info: johanna.p.bishop@wilmu.edu

WILMINGTON UNIVERSITY

320 North Dupont Highway, New Castle, Delaware 19720, Doberstein Admissions Center Auditorium

Questions? Contact Dr. Johanna Bishop, johanna.p.bishop@wilmu.edu